

The 8th edition of the International Conducting Competition Jeuneses Musicales Bucharest is offering special student discounts!

Bring a colleague and each of you will have 25% off on both fees!

The International Conducting Competition Jeuneses Musicales Bucharest (<http://www.bucharestcompetition.ro/en/>) is open to all young conductors from all over the world and is an important professional and networking platform. Known nationally and internationally for its continuous promotion of high professional standards and excellence, the competition brings to Bucharest some of the most talented conductors in the world.

In order to support young conductors and give them the opportunity of participating in major competitions, the organizers are offering special student discounts: if you bring a friend, both of you will get 25% off on both fees.

The competition will take place from the 26th to the 30th of September, 2017, in Bucharest at the Romanian Athenaeum – the most important cultural landmark of the country. The conductors who will be accepted in the first round will have the opportunity to work with some of the most important contemporary artists in the classical music field.

The official orchestra of the competition is the world-renowned George Enescu Philharmonic Orchestra, a historical musical institution which has dazzled audiences from every continent. The contestants will be judged by a jury composed of some of the most remarkable contemporary conductors: Sigmund Thorp, who will be President of the jury, Christian Ehwald, Jacek Rogala, Horia Andreescu, Gheorghe Costin, Vasila Cazan, Cristian Orosanu, Marta Wierzbieniec, and Bujor Prelipcean.

In addition to the financial prizes, the competitors will also receive conducting commitments with the Philharmonic Orchestras of Craiova, Timisoara, Sibiu, Iasi, Brasov, Kielce (Poland), The National Chamber Orchestra of Moldova, the Târgu Mureș State Philharmonic, the George Enescu Philharmonic Orchestra or the Orchestre Philharmonique Royal de Liege (Belgium).
